Proper Citation: Oregon Clinical and Translational Research Institute Biomedical Informatics Program (RRID:SCR_009965)

Description: THIS RESOURCE IS NO LONGER IN SERVICE. Documented on December 6,2022. Core facility provides the following services: Data Management Consultation, Research Databases: REDCap & Customized Databases, Functional Genomics Consultation: Microarray Proteomics. The Biomedical Informatics Program (BMIP) provides investigators with informatics tools and methodologies to support translational researchers. Using a hybrid of collaborative and service approaches, BMIP is continually developing and deploying an array of informatics tools for bench research (bioinformatics), bedside research (clinical research informatics), and translation to practice (medical informatics). BMIP also provides a platform for collaborative and multidisciplinary informatics education and research. The Biomedical Informatics Program includes two major areas of emphasis: Translational Bioinformatics - Novel methodology development, Statistical Genetics, Functional Genomics, Clinical Research Informatics, Research Data Warehouse - Using Epic and other clinical data for research, Clinical research data management software, Epic as an interventional tool for research

Abbreviations: OCTRI BMIP, BMIP

Synonyms: Oregon Clinical, BMIP, Translational Research Institute, Biomedical Informatics Program, OCTRI

Resource Type: core facility, access service resource, service resource

Keywords: data management, database development, protein expression profiling, solexa sequencing, protein microarray assay, next generation sequencing
