Proper Citation: Stanford University Research Computing Center Core Facility (RRID:SCR_023413)

Description: Provides services with computing and data information for research proposals, data storage platforms, consultation, computational platforms and resources. Some services relate directly to physical hardware, including hosting and system administration. Hosting largely takes place at Stanford Research Computing Facility data center designed specifically to host high density, power consumptive computing equipment. SRCF is intended to meet research server hosting needs of campus for years to come.
