Description: Research facility jointly operated by the University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Mellon University in partnership with the U.S. Census Bureau. It provides qualified researchers with access to restricted-use microdata from federal statistical agencies in a highly controlled environment, ensuring strict confidentiality through dedicated workstations without internet or external device access. By enabling analysis of detailed federal data, the center supports advanced research in fields such as economics, public health, business, social policy, political science, and demography, allowing investigators to address questions that cannot be answered with public datasets.
